Boston must have burned a lot of red fire last night in honor of the victory of the Boston Americans.

One of the features which will not be the least by any means in connection with the new tuberculosis hospital at Pittsburg will be the landscape gardening about the grounds. Whatever may be judiciously expended in beautifying the surroundings of the inmates of the hospital will be well worth it. The benefit to the mind of the patient from pleasant, cheerful surroundings must be considerable.

ONE HORSEMAN'S EXPERIENCE.

The following from "Farm and Home" forcibly illustrates something that is undoubtedly true:

"I drive both a horse and an auto, and have had ample opportunity to view the horse-riding question from the viewpoint of both the farmer and the automobile owner. I believe that any horse can by a few trials be trained to pass an automobile quietly. I possessed a horse that was frantically afraid of an auto, the first few times he met it. Like all horses unaccustomed to the machines, he shied from the strange thing because he thought it would hurt him.

"It is doubtful if any horse shies or scares at a thing just to be mean. If a horse has any life in him at all, he will shy from any object on the road that is strange to him. Especially is this true of colts, and one that will not do it is hardly worth breaking. "In my case I led the horse up quietly to a machine that was drawn up to one side of the road. He snorted and pranced frantically at first, but was gradually persuaded to approach close enough to touch his nose to the seat. Then the motor was started and the horse held close to the vibrating machine. He soon learned that it was a harmless thing, and he now passes an auto on the road with but a pricking of his ears and a look of disdain, as he believes it hardly worth the attention of a sensible horse.

"While driving my machine I have met all sorts of people on the road, and fully three-fourths of them have trouble in passing with their teams. The whole trouble lies in the people being more frightened than the animals. Men begin yelling, women screech, and the horses at once conclude that the automobile is going to hurt them. I have met farmers, who on seeing the machine approach would hurriedly blindfold their horses that they might not see the puffing monster pass. Others begin applying their whip when their team shies, and the next time the horses are afraid of both the automobile and the whip."

THE COUNTRY DOCTOR.

In a letter to the New York Sun, Dr. J. M. Allen, the well known St. Johnsbury physician, makes an interesting contribution to the discussion of the relative merits of the city versus the country doctor. Dr. Allen classes himself with the latter and as such makes a vigorous defense of them. Perhaps the most telling point which he makes in that defense is this, that the country doctor gets the benefit of a wide experience. He is not, like the city physician, in a position to rush serious cases off to the hospital and there throw over the responsibility to the regular hospital attendants. The country doctor generally has no hospital to which he can despatch his patients; he must attend to them himself or let them die. This state of affairs teaches him to think, to study into the causes and symptoms of the disease which faces him. This wide range of observation of disease results, it must of necessity result, in a more fully developed physician. To be sure specialization brings a doctor into closer touch with a certain stated ailment of mankind than is possible for the general practitioner, but for that one branch of medicine alone, let it be remembered. The specialist in medicine may be as lop-sided in the profession as an eagle with one wing, and oftentimes is. He has devoted himself very largely to the study of one or two diseases, to the neglect of the innumerable other ailments. The city is undoubtedly the place for the specialist to gain the highest eminence because of the better facilities for observation and because of the multiplicity of cases which come to his attention. But for the general practitioner give us the country doctor, whether he be of the so-called "old type" or the new. He has run the gamut of disease from general debility to small pox, and knows when to give out bread pills or anti-toxins. The country doctor may need to go to the hospitals to brush up on certain of the new phases of medical science, which have been discovered by specialists, but in that respect he is no different than his city cousin.

BELEATED CRITICISM.

Here's Bernard Shaw at Power's knocks. To perpetrate a paradox:
 And, though the people fly in flocks,
 And puzzle till their reason rocks;
 And some it pleases; some it shocks;
 And one or two suspect he mocks;
 Yet balcony, parqu岸 and box
 Can't penetrate his paradox.

Victoria, B. C., May 26.—Mail advices from the Orient state that an earthquake causing great loss of life and considerable damage to property, occurred at the beginning of May at Uniankai and vicinity, in Mongolia. The Hungtutzu brigands have fomented a serious insurrection in Peng Tien province, Manchuria. The mounted bandits established themselves in a village thirty miles east of Mukden and mounted three quick-firing guns on an elevation guarding the approaches to the village. The Tartar general, Chao Erhsen, despatched some mounted troops, aided by the Japanese police at Mukden, but they were defeated, losing many men, horses, arms, and ammunition. A Manchurian battalion was also worsted.

The brigands are still unsubdued.

"SMALLEST" BABY ARRIVES.

Paterson Infant Weighs 2½ Pounds; Is 15 Inches Long.

Paterson, May 26.—The smallest baby in Paterson is in the Bainbridge home at 47 Fair street. When the news of the baby became known, there was a general rush of women friends and neighbors to see the little boy, and up to noon about 100 women had gazed upon the new baby.

The baby weighs two pounds and a half, and from the top of his head to his tiny toes he measures fifteen inches. From his chin to the top of his forehead he measures three inches. His little head is only one and a quarter inches long.

Physicians who have seen him say that there is every indication that he will soon be as big and healthy as any child.

SPANKS BOYS IN COURT.

Utica Judge Interprets the Law in Novel Fashion.

Utica, May 26.—The City Court was the scene of a great commotion Thursday when Judge (Pioneer) took a flat legal file made of hard wood and spanked several small boys who had stolen rubber boots. The boys yelled vociferously as the judge applied his interpretation of what was good for them. They were allowed to go at the end of the treatment.

"Every one of you will get a worse spanking than that if you are brought in here again," the judge warned them. The mothers of the boys were witnesses to this spanking and all of them applauded, except one, who prayed audibly while the boys screamed.

WHEN CANAL WILL BE DONE.

Panama Ditch, if With Locks, Will Open July 1, 1914, Says Taft.

Washington, May 26.—Secretary Taft, in explaining the Panama Canal estimates to the House committee on appropriations, said that should a lock canal be constructed it would be in operation on July 1, 1914.

Chairman Shonts and Auditor Benson were also heard by the committee. Chief Engineer Stevens, who was to have been heard, is ill in New York, having just arrived from the isthmus.

In the Senate yesterday, on motion of Senator Kittredge, the sea-level Panama canal bill was made the unfinished business.

SUSPEND TRIAL.

Terranova Case Stopped to Look Into Girl's Sanity.

New York, May 26.—At the request of Dist. Atty. Jerome, Justice Scott yesterday suspended the trial of Josephine Terranova in order to inquire into her sanity.

Mr. Jerome said that the evidence thus far submitted had shown the Terranova girl to be of unsound mind, and he did not want to continue the trial of an insane person. He asked that a commission be appointed to inquire into her sanity.

Counsel for Mrs. Terranova opposed the requests of the district attorney.

QUIET AFTER NIGHT OF FEAR.

Work Resumed in Mine Following Many Wild Rumors.

Smithfield, O., May 26.—A night of constant alarms and wild rumors at the Plum Run mine was followed by a day of apparent peace. A volley was fired from the hollow east of the tipple about 6 o'clock Thursday night. One of the big search lights was turned that way, but the men with the guns were successfully concealed.

Work was resumed yesterday morning without mishap. The non-union men entered the pits early before the strikers were astir.

MUTUAL RESERVE ECONOMY.

Life Insurance Company Wants No More New Business in England.

London, May 25.—The head office of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company in London and all the country agencies did not open for business today.

New York, May 26.—George D. Eldridge, vice-president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company of this city, said yesterday that the company had discontinued all effort to obtain new business in England. The company will, however, continue to carry on the insurance it has already in force there.

The restrictions on the amount of commission which the company is permitted to pay to agents for new business, imposed by the new laws of this state, Mr. Eldridge said, made it unprofitable for the company to seek new business. This was due in part, he said, to the fact that the company's present business in England is not large. The company has been gradually lessening its efforts to get new business in England for two years.
